

Population Health Day: Creating Connections

CONVERSATIONS TO ADVANCE A HEALTHY COMMUNITY FOR ALL

Main Line Health Center for Population Health Research at Lankenau Institute for Medical Research (LIMR) and Jefferson College of Population Health present a one-day workshop exploring the interconnectedness between the health care we deliver and the communities we serve. Speakers will share the importance of leveraging data for population health initiatives, and we will have roundtable discussions to prioritize health needs within our own hospital communities. The outcome will be a plan of action based on roundtable sessions.

Friday, October 18, 2019

7:30 am–3:30 pm

Lankenau Medical Center

Auditorium and Annenberg
Conference Rooms 101 ABC
100 East Lancaster Avenue
Wynnewood, PA 19096

Target Audience

Everyone is invited to attend, including health care professionals, insurers, researchers and academics, legislators and policy-makers, community health professionals, and the general public.

Breakfast & Lunch

Continental breakfast and lunch will be provided.

Cost

Event is FREE but registration is required.

TO REGISTER, please email Meg Jones at jonesme@mlhs.org by Friday, October 4.

Program

GRAND ROUNDS

Welcoming Address

Jack Lynch, FACHE, President & CEO, Main Line Health

How Population Health is Woven Into the Fabric of Lankenau Medical Center

Phil Robinson, FACHE, President, Lankenau Medical Center

Why Population Health Research Matters at LIMR

George Prendergast, PhD, President & CEO, LIMR

Why Your Partnership Matters to Improve the Health of Our Community

Sharon Larson, PhD, Professor and Executive Director, Main Line Health Center for Population Health Research at LIMR; Professor, Jefferson College of Population Health

The Value of Using Data to Support Population Health Initiatives

- Pamela Clarke, MSW, Senior Director of Quality & Operations, Health Promotion Council
- Harm Scherpbier, MD, Chief Medical Information Officer, HealthShare Exchange; Adjunct Professor, Jefferson College of Population Health
- Elizabeth Scoles, MPH, Project Manager, HealthShare Exchange

ROUNDTABLE

Identifying Our Community's Top Health Concerns—and Creating a Plan to Achieve Positive Health Outcomes

ROUNDTABLE ROUNDUP

Priorities and Planning for Positive Health Outcomes

PANEL DISCUSSION (For Main Line Health clinical residents only | 2:00 pm)

Master Your Research Requirement

Pamela Clarke and Sharon Larson will discuss research training opportunities, clinically relevant research questions to pursue, and strategies for research success.