

How to find program announcements for federal grants

Go to grants.gov

In the search box at the top of the page, type in a keyword for your research (e.g., cancer).

This opens a search page. Sort the results as follows:

Under 'Funding Instrument Type,' click on 'Grant'

Other sorting parameters are available in the 'Sort By' box.

Pay attention to the 'Close Date' column at the far right. This tells you when a program announcement will expire. (This information is also on the program announcement itself.) When a program announcement expires, you are unable to apply to it.

Note: Program announcements that are listed as 'Forecasted' in the 'Opportunity Status' column have not yet been posted.

Description: The purpose of this Funding Opportunity Announcement (FOA) is to support research projects designed to solve specific problems and paradoxes in cancer research identified by the National Cancer Institute (NCI) Provocative Questions Initiative. These problems and paradoxes are not intended to represent the full range of NCI's priorities in cancer research. Rather, they are meant to challenge researchers to think about and elucidate specific problems in key areas of cancer research that are deemed important and have not received sufficient attention. Some of these "Provocative Questions" (PQs) stem from intriguing but older, neglected observations that have never been adequately explored. Other PQs are built on more recent findings that are perplexing or paradoxical, revealing important gaps in current knowledge. Finally, some PQs reflect problems that traditionally have been thought to be intractable but that now may be open to investigations using new strategies and recent technical advances. The current issuance of the PQ initiative includes an updated set of 12 PQs. Each research project proposed in response to this FOA must be focused on addressing the research problems defined by a specific PQ selected from the list. Projects proposed to address PQs may use strategies that incorporate ideas and approaches from multiple disciplines, as appropriate. Transdisciplinary projects are encouraged if they serve the scientific focus of the selected PQ.
